

MISSION

The NCOES Battalion has two basic missions: to provide instructors for BNCOC and ANCOC IDT Phase I Common Core Course and to maintain Accreditation for NCOES in all of Region A.

HISTORY

The 14th Battalion (NCOES) 6th Brigade (PD), 98th Division (IT), was activated on 1 October 1996 as a TASS (The Army School System) battalion at Fort Dix, New Jersey. Previously NCOES was taught through the USAR Schools.

ACADEMY INFORMATION

There is one full-time (ADT) NCO Academy in Region A, located at Ft Dix, NJ. It offers PLDC, BNCOC, and ANCOC in a two week ADT status. The AGR Commandant at the Ft Dix Academy is also the 14th Battalion Commandant.

Phase I NCOES courses are taught in IDT status at ARNG Regional Training sites. The ARNG provides the site, site administration, and maintains the student records.

Currently we teach IDT ANCOC and BNCOC at the following locations:

Instructor Certification

Under TASS, the proponent school having responsibility for the development of the courses being taught must certify instructors.

To become certified an instructor must meet the following requirements:

- Have served in a leadership position (waiverable)
- Be a SGT(P), SSG or SFC
- Meet HT/WT standards
- Passed an APFT within the last six months
- "H" ASI awarded
- Attended TAITC/BFITC and SGITC
- Be a graduate of the appropriate level NCOES
- Successfully complete the Mentorship Program (one cycle under a certified instructor)

The United States Army Sergeants Major Academy certifies all NCOES instructors in Region A through the 14th Battalion.
